The University Research Fellowship program aims to provide outstanding scientists, who have the potential to become leaders in their chosen fields, with the opportunity to build an independent research career. Dr. O'Bannon has previously held research positions with the Max Planck Institute for Physics (Munich, Germany) and with the University of Cambridge (England) in the Department of Applied Mathematics and Physics. His current position is with the University of Oxford (England). PUBLIC COMMENTS

Dan Small, a resident of the Tuckahoe District, reiterated his opposition to the meals tax, which he also expressed to the Board nine years ago prior to the County’s previous referendum on this matter. He suggested that the Board address the County’s budgetary problem by furloughing those employees who earn more than $100,000; by asking the Virginia General Assembly for a local share of the state income tax; and by taking a pay cut. Mr. Small pointed out that if Henrico voters approve a meals tax, the Board has the option of setting a meals tax rate that is lower than four percent.
