NACo is the only national organization representing county governments in the United States. Its goals are to improve county government, act as liaison with other levels of government, serve as the national spokesman for counties and to advance public understanding.

NACo's steering committees are the policy makers of the association. Fifty to 60 county officials comprise each steering committee; the committees meet throughout the year to examine issues that are critical to local government. Their county legislative recommendations, if approved, become part of the American County Platform, which helps in representing counties to the United States Congress and the White House.
